

Why do you want to travel?

Now you may be thinking that all those families who travel regularly have less commitments than you do, more money and flexible jobs. Well, you'll be surprised to hear that most families who travel, do so because they make travel a priority in their lives, not because they're rich digital nomads. They adjust their lifestyle to achieve their goals. Yes, it's not always simple, and there are sacrifices to be made, but it all pays off in the end.

In order to make travel a priority in your life, you need to be clear on what your priorities are and why travel is important to you.

So with this in mind, I want you to think why travel is important to you? Plus why it's important to your whole family.

1. Why do you want to travel? (Tick as many as apply.)

- To experience other cultures
 - To taste authentic food in other countries
 - To learn new languages
 - To see the natural wonders of the world
 - To see the man-made wonders of the world
 - To better understand history
 - To lead a life less ordinary
 - Make incredible memories
 - To step out of our comfort zone
 - Personal growth
 - Build family relationships
 - To connect with family and friends
 - Other _____
-
-

Choosing a Destination

2. What type of trip do you want to take? (Tick as many as apply.)

- Big city
- Back to nature
- Wonders of the world
- Adventure
- Relaxing
- Cultural
- Educational
- A bit of everything
- Other _____

3. How many days would you like to travel? _____
4. What time of year do you want to travel? _____
5. Are there any special considerations you need to keep in mind (vaccinations, attraction closures, etc.)?

6. Write down three potential trips you'd like to take and list the pros and cons of each.

Trip A Where to? _____

Pros

Cons

Trip B Where to? _____

Pros

Cons

Trip C Where to? _____

Pros

Cons

